Class History

In September of 1954, old Fort Sherman was invaded by thirty-five trembling Freshmen. As we stood on the threshold of four glorious years of hard work, we could only wonder what these years had in store for us. When the door finally squeaked open and the empty corridors were filled once again with the sound of busy voices, we were ushered to Sister M. Kevina's classroom where we were "told" a few things.

A few new faces were added to the old that had graduated from St. Thomas: Janis Boyer's inquisitive face; Terry Semanko's healthy countenance; the quiet face of Kathy Reisenauer; Kent Hultner's round mien; and the timid Ron Scharff.

With each passing month we became more accustomed to the ringing bells and change of teachers (instead of classrooms) and when we finally got into the swing of things our Freshman year ended with the "Plantation Boogie" Frosh Hop.

Our Sophomore year will long stand out in our memories for this was the year that Mother M. Rebecca, Sister M. Barbara, and Sister M. Spiritus came 2,400 miles across the continent just for the unique privilege of teaching us.

The year 1955 found the shivering Frosh transformed into the "big" sophomores. Energetic Jackie Primozich, placid Leonard Selzler, and vivacious Billie Pendergast were newcomers.

The Sophomore Latin scholars, celebrating the anniversary of Julius Caesar's death presented the play "The Ides of March." Green bangs on March 17 showed us that the influence of Saint Patrick on the Irish had not died. What's this? Kent Hultner thinks fly paper is a collective noun? To show just how sharp the Sophomores were, they "caught" Mother M. Rebecca, of all people, throwing snowballs.

With "Moments to Remember" as the theme for our Soph-Senior party, we found ourselves halfway through high school.

As Juniors, we greeted jovial Rod Newby, reserved Ellen Hallgreen, congenial Ruth Perkins, athletic Dave Kryger, and easy-going Jim Stillinger as newcomers.

We will long remember the Senior boys' 15-layer, 35-pound cake that Rod Newby ate, I mean, won. In 1956, our Panthers had an undefeated football season. The new cheerleaders, Barbara Gribnau, Jean Macy, Jackie Primozich, and Mickey Whiteley probably had something to do with this.

Our Junior year brought us closer to Our Lady, for we were accepted into the Sodality. Sister M. Charisse was the moderator.

In February 1957, the Juniors were just bursting with pride for several good reasons. Our Junior Prom was a tremendous success with Queen Mickey Whiteley adding to the "Fantasy." If you happened to see a Junior walking down the hall waving a hand in front of him, he wasn't sleepwalking, just showing off his brand new class ring. And if you think the rest of the Juniors were elated, you should have seen our newly-elected co-editor of "The Laurel", Janis Boyer.

This was the year we sent Dave Kryger and Dick Nielsen to Boys' State, and Jean Macy to Girls' State. The end of the year meant a dinner for the Seniors, and all the Juniors co-operated to make it the best Junior-Senior dinner possible.

And here we are! Seniors at last, but not for long. With the new school came a new faculty member, Sister M. Teresine, and new classmates: JoAnn Hattell, our artist; Jim Yacks, our football manager; and Ted Green, our quiet man. New in the line of athletics was our first 11-man football team and its coach, Stan Sweatte. In clubs we had the first Pep Club with Billie Pendergast as president and the first "A" Club with Ron Scharff, Dave Kryger, and Gary Thompson at its head. Pat Campbell was a faithful member of the square-dancing class on Sunday nights and you could always see Sharon Meyer, Mother's banker, making her regular trips on Friday afternoons to deposit the "loot". Larry Anderson was really the one for asking directions --he always asked the girls. Ardis Engen was chosen to assist Janis Boyer with the job of putting out the school paper each month. At the end of the year, Jean Carlson displayed her genius at the piano when she presented her Senior Recital.

Our Senior year was a pleasant one, as well as a memorable one. We will long remember the Christmas production, "Coming of the King", and the three-act play, "Murder Takes the Veil." Also, our parties and dances will not be forgotten: the Senior Ball, the Football Dance, the Soph-Senior Party, the Junior-Senior Dinner, and the Progressive Dinner.

But most of all, we shall remember that great day, May 20, 1958, when we walked proudly to Bishop Byrne and received our signed diplomas.

IN APPRECIATION

In the pages of this book we relive the scenes and activities of many happy days as students of the Academy of the Immaculate Heart of Mary. May we here thank those who have instilled in us the highest ideals of manhood and womanhood, our priests, our teachers, and our parents.

As our names are added to the roster of Academy Alumni, it is our desire that those who guided us through these years will continue to pray for us that our names will be written in time and eternity in the Sacred Heart of Jesus and the Immaculate Heart of Mary.

Informal Favorites

An after school Pepsi is enjoyed by Don Boughton and Kent Hultner. Academy boarders Zita Green, Donna Hoefner, Yvonne Cloutier, Loretta Well, ing, and Arlene Lufkin watch Frances Schmelter down the next dime.

Browsing in books and magazines is a favorite senior occupation. Ardis Engen charges a book for Don Kom. Jim Stillinger, Jackie Primozich, and Jim Yacks scan the latest slicks.

Freshman Tom Holzer, the Academy's official door opener, is greeted by Blaise Koep. Looking on are Helen Henderson, Judy Anderson, Mike Sweeney, Sharon O'Connell, Don Boughton, and Kathy O'Connell.

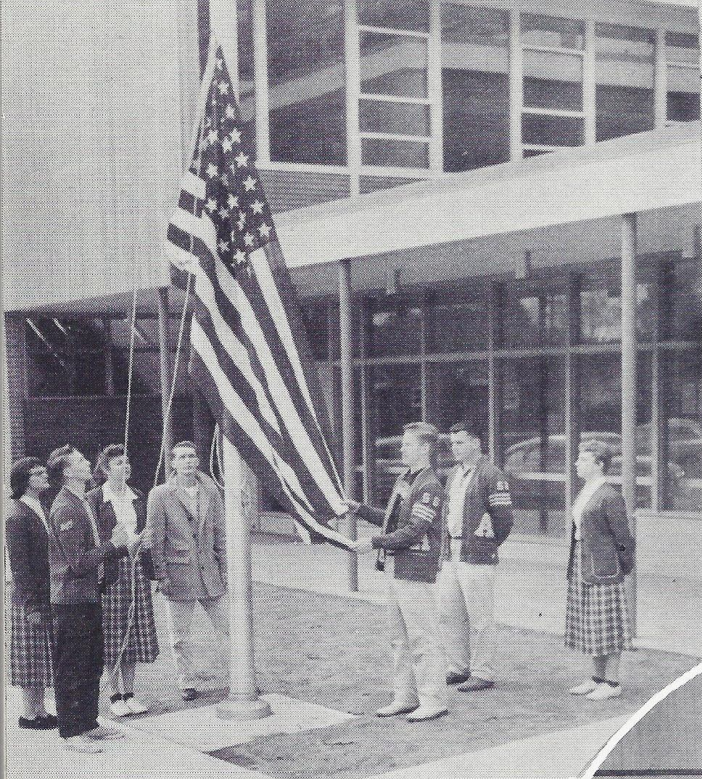

Time and Place: 8:40 A. M. in Mother M. Rebecca's office. Situation seems well in hand as students Joe Dawson, Ja-Nee Russell, Sharon Larson, John Dimeling, Mary Beth Crowley, Don Boughton, and Theo Ann Williams receive combination locks for the newly acquired lockers.

Activities

Larry Anderson assisted by Gary Thompson raise Old Glory over their Alma Mater. Standing at attention are JoAnn Hattell, Lorna Pendergast, Don Kom, Kent Hultner, and Mickey Whiteley.

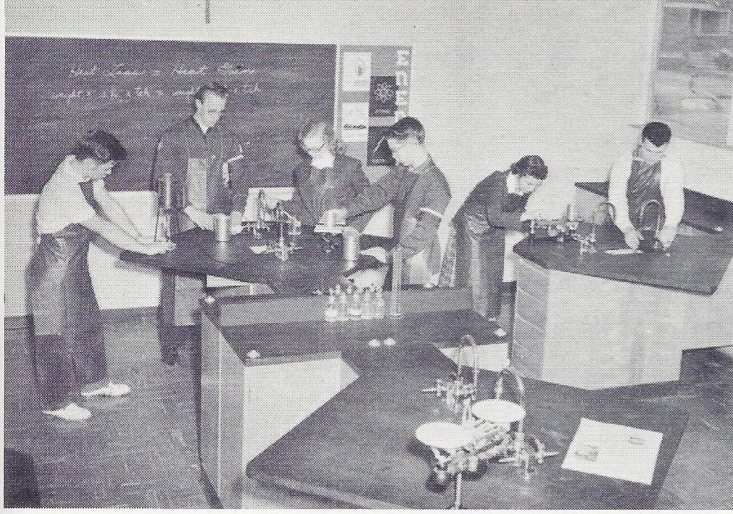

Pep Club--The cheering followers of the team--near and far. Standing with the cheerleaders are Billie Pendergast, president; Ja-Nee Russell, secretary-treasurer.

The Press Club publishes "The Laurel" monthly. Janis Boyer types a stencil while Jean Carlson supervises. Ellen Hallgreen, JoAnn Hattell, Ardis Engen and Margaret Whiteley discuss copy; at the mimeographing; Jean Macy, Ronald Scharff, and Billie Pendergast.

Senior Homemakers, J. Meyer, K. Reisenauer, M. Whiteley, B. Gribnau, J. Hattell, B. Pendergast, A. Engen, E. Hallgreen, J. Boyer, and J. Primozich, hear pointers on pie-making from Helen O'Reilly, center.

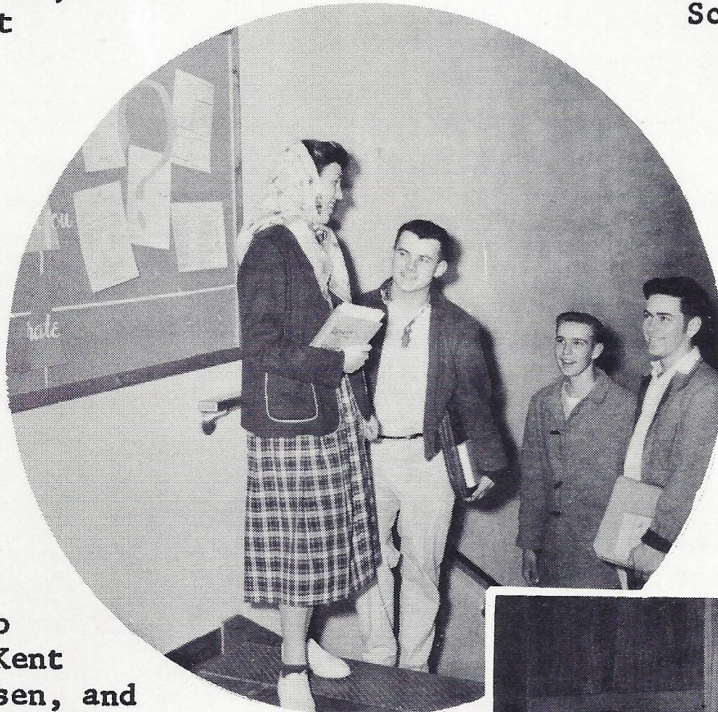

Physicists completing a heat experiment find science more absorbing than the camera. Terry Semanko, Ted Green, Jean Carlson, Albie Nephew, Jean Macy, and Kent Hultner are the studious sextet.

Exploring old annuals for new ideas are "Le Coeur" staff members Pat Campbell, Kathy Reisenauer, Jean Macy, Albie Nephew, Rod Newby, Ron Scharff, and Janis Boyer.

"Good Morning, good people," says Barbara Gribnau to cheerful seniors, Kent Hultner, Dick Nielsen, and Terry Semanko.

Officers of the DeSales Club Dave Kryger, president, Ruth Perkins, vice president; and Jean Macy, secretary share the spotlight with Our Lady.

Don Kom, Jim Yacks, Sharon Meyer, Ellen Hallgreen and Ruth Perkins are aiming for high things in the Magazine Drive.

This activity takes place annually as the students attempt to increase the volume of Catholic reading in homes.

Officers of the "A" Club Ron Scharff, David Kryger and Gary Thompson are "clueing in" the other members about the new rules and looking over several "action shots" in which the football team is featured.
